

Rossi budget promises austerity

Trying to juggle the details of her first budget and the self-imposed timetable for review by a state oversight committee, Mayor Nancy Rossi missed her own March 1 deadline, but expects to get her proposed budget for Fiscal Year 2019 into the panel's hand "soon." The mayor has set next Thursday, March 15, as the date she presents the plan to the City Council in special session.

Rossi, who has made fiscal accountability a cornerstone of her new administration, reiterated this week that raising taxes is not an option she considered when putting together the spending plan.

"My proposed budget will be sent to the Municipal Accountability Review Board (MARB) soon," she said. "I expect (it) to review the document and submit comments."

She said the budget as currently outlined will make necessary cuts.

"The proposed budget reduces spending, eliminates redundant services and reduces positions. West Haven is among the highest taxed communities in the state so raising taxes in my mind was not an option. The proposed budget, if approved by the MARB and City Council, will require sacrifice from all departments and will require the city to be more efficient in delivering services to our residents," she said.

When asked if an last-minute changes have been necessary, she said no, but did say the difficulties came because of inherent problems.

"The budget-making process has been extremely difficult and challenging because of the earlier than usual deadline and most challenging because of the $8 million revenue shortfall I inherited," she said.

Asked about the budget address she plans to give, Rossi said it will be one of austerity.

"I will be writing my budget address and want to have my budget presentation to the City Council include a 'State of the City' update," she said. "The public should know that the budget will include cuts in spending and a reduction of positions. We need to provide city services with fewer resources and deliver more effectively and efficiently. Like many of our residents, we have to do more with less."

Rossi pointed out that some of the decisions she is making are difficult and will cause some discomfort.

"This budget will honest and balanced, but at the same time a bit painful and uncomfortable. We are facing an $8 million revenue shortfall and it needs to be addressed. This budget will stop the out-of-control spending and provide the city with a balanced budget," she said.

With the city under the control of a review board, Rossi was asked if she thought the review process by the City Council will be different than in years' past.

"I expect the City Council's review to be different in that they will meet with all the city departments to review and propose legislation that might help execute such a very lean budget while protecting the most critical services," she said.

With charter revision underway, Rossi was asked if she would like to see any alterations in the current process when the commission takes up the question.

"The budget process has a long way

Coleman Walsh is city's top Irishman

By Michael P. Walsh
Special to the Voice

Coleman William Walsh, Jr., a goodwill ambassador of the Irish-American community who has dedicated his lifework to carrying on the spirited traditions of Ireland, will receive West Haven's Irishman of the Year award the day before St. Patrick's Day at the city's 27th annual St. Patrick's Day Celebration.

The West Haven St. Patrick's Day Committee will fete Walsh, a second-generation Irish-American, by hanging a green street sign designating City Hall's Campbell Avenue entrance "Coleman W. Walsh Jr. Square" for a year.

Last year's recipient, Kelly Canning

Ruickoldt, will take home her sign at the start of the ceremony.

The "Irish Person of the Year" honor is bestowed annually on an Irish resident, or couple, who personifies service in the city's robust Irish-American community.

"I would like to thank the city of West Haven and the committee for this wonderful honor," said Walsh, grand marshal of the 2005 Greater New Haven St. Patrick's Day Parade, who will toast his Irish lineage with scores of his closest friends and relatives, along with an array of shamrock-clad dignitaries and descendants of folks from the Emerald Isle.

"I look forward to the opportunity to make West Haven proud of their choice, and I am excited to be in the company of such fine Irish-Americans who have been given this honor before me," he said.

Accompanied by Celtic music played by bagpipers and drummers, members of the West Haven Police Color Guard will escort Walsh to the Campbell Avenue side of City Hall at noon March 16 for his special recognition.

A corned beef and cabbage lunch will follow in the First Congregational Church of West Haven's Fellowship Hall, at 1 Church St. opposite City Hall on the Green.

The St. Patrick's Day Committee, led by Chairwoman Beth A. Sabo, the city's commissioner of human resources, includes the lifeblood of West Haven's Irish-American society, such as members of the Irish-American Club and former honorees, as well as former and current city, fire and police officials.

"It is my great pleasure to celebrate one of the many cultures that makes West Haven the diverse city I love," Mayor Nancy R. Rossi said.

Walsh, 62, executive chairman of the Greater New Haven St. Patrick's Day Parade Committee, hails from an ancestry whose legacy is stitched into the tapestry of the American fabric.

From celestial green shores, millions of fearless Irish sons and daughters set out across the Atlantic Ocean seeking a brighter day in the United States. Alongside a melting pot of other im

Budget: Rossi plan to slash city spending

to go including a public hearing and the City Council meeting with department heads. I believe it would be good for the City Council to be able to change a budget line item with a simple majority of its members (7 votes). The City Charter, as written, makes it difficult for the legislative body to make changes to the mayor's recommended budget because it requires a super majority (9 votes). The budget should also need to be acted on, approved or rejected, by the City Council," she said.

Rossi also believes the current requirement that a rejected budget goes into law by default needs changing.

"A rejection should send it back to the mayor and the budget should require an approval vote by the council to go into effect. A budget should not go into effect because of no action or a negative vote of the legislative body. I also believe it would be beneficial for the budget process to move the approval timeline into June so that the city has better state revenue numbers and so the process is not rushed," she said.

In summarizing her work so far, Rossi said she looks forward to moving the process along once her address is given next week.

"I look forward to working and meeting with City Council members to approve a balanced and honest budget. We find ourselves in a tough situation but I am confident that working together we will be successful and pass a budget that will move West Haven in the right direction," she said.

Society hosts mayor; looks for artist info

West Haven Historical Society is to host Mayor Nancy Rossi tonight.

The mayor is scheduled to speak at 7 p.m. at the Poli House, 686 Savin Ave., opposite the Green.

This is the first meeting of the Society in 2018.

"The Historical Society is looking forward to having the new mayor as our first speaker of 2018," noted President Jon E. Purmont.

Rossi took office in December and is the city's first female chief executive in West Haven history.

All members are urged to attend. Society meetings are open to members of the public. Refreshments will be served.

Meanwhile, the society is seeking information on a local artist William Lockwood for a planned exhibit on the local man.

He was well-known locally for having painted signs for owners of businesses at Savin Rock and his murals were known to grace the walls of several Savin Rock restaurants.

His family lived in West Haven for many years. He was a gifted artist and performed other functions of art work for booths and exhibits at Savin Rock.

He was also a portrait artist particularly of children.

Anyone who has information on this African-American painter is asked to call the West Haven Historical Society at (203) 932-0088.

Dear Felicia

Well sweetie, here we are in March, but it feels more like January. I guess that's OK cuz most o' February felt like April. Ole Man Winter has made it known that he ain't gonna leave for the southern tier anytime soon, and is still in residence. Jest this week we saw snow flurries and there was talk of some more snow by those whose job it is to guess at the weather.

Meanwhile, around these parts yew can tell it's March cuz the annual March bulk trash pickup is underway, and the streets seem to be flooded with debris that has to be picked up. It's amazing to this ole gal how much "stuff" people accumulate in these parts, and how much "stuff" they get rid of each and every quarter.

Of course, even though the city and its trash hauler haven't taken televisions for years, yew can bet the mortgage on the fact that many residents are gonna put out their plasma TVs or some setch nonsense, including computers. Just get in yore gassamobuggy and take a look at who's on the street and yew'll get a good guess.

Well, that ain't why you read these weekly missives, so I guess I'd better git to what's going on here in the Asylum by the Sea.

By the time yew git this, the Demmies bi-annual game of "king of the hill" will be over. Who wins this time 'round is anyone's guess. As yew know from past experience this has little to do with politics and more to do with popularity – and getting one's friends out to vote.

As I've told yew, it's the Morrissey people against the former Picard people, who have now become the Rossi people. It's all for control of the party over the next two years on the 60-member Demmy Town Committee and who'll be chairman of said committee.

Now, yew'd think there would be some power or at least some money involved in this but there ain't. The Demmy Town Committee is as poor as a church mouse, not having any real funds to help candidates with. The only advantage D's have over R's is party recognition. Most people around here would vote for Jack Ketch if he had a D next to his name.

But there is another problem, which is gonna make difficulties somewhere down the line.

Sammy Bluejay was in t'other afternoon, and brought up the very thing I discussed with you a couple weeks back. The names on both the Morrissey slate and the Rossi slate don't leave much to the imagination. The faces are exactly the same as they were when Picard was in office more than four years ago, and the faces are exactly the same when O'Brien was in office up to two months ago.

Neither side is really bringing in any new blood, jest the same people who've been involved for more years than either one of us want to count. My belief – remember Iyam scribing this before the vote – is the turnout is just barely gonna be double digits.

There are more than 19,000 people in town who call themselves Democrats. Don't be surprised if about 3,000 actually traverse to the polls to make a mark on a ballot.

With the coming and going of March 1, herroner was to submit her budget proposal to the Municipal Accountability Review Board (MARB) for its perusal before it goes in front of the City Council at a special session next Thursday. I'd love to be a fly on that wall, but don't know if m'wings would get me to Hartford.

Honeybunch, this is gonna be the most important budget this berg has seen in more than 20 years, and it might be the truest one we've seen since then, too. Yew know that every number will be run through by the state people, and effen a jot or tittle is wrong, they'll let City Hall know.

The question before the house is what actual work the City Council has to do in its six-week review of the proposal once it passes muster in Hartford? The only thing that comes to mind is the shifting around of funds, whilst not touching the bottom line.

Touching the bottom line ain't something that most council's do historically, and I can only think of one time that has happened. Sooooo, it'll be interesting to see how this review goes. My mem'ry seems to bring up a notion that the reviews of 1992, 1993 and 1994 were kind o' pro forma cuz the state review board had all the power back then. The fack is, the review board has all the power now, and whilst it might be said to be "advisory," the truth is effen it don't like who's going on, it can veto it. This shall be a very interesting review season.

Nelly Nuthatch overheard the chairman of the City Council, Ron Quagliani, mention that about 40 people actually looked for spots on the Charter Revision Commission. That's a wealth of riches we ain't seen in these parts in a long time. People must be interested. The commish is supposed to be seven or nine in membership, so Quagliani is like the coach who has to see who makes the cut. This ole gal has an idea. Even though the commish might be seven or nine, what about having sub-committees make up of some of the others, who can do research and be involved in the process whilst not having a vote. Let's face it, most of these votes are after things have been decided.

Soooo, effen you need work done on four or five areas, see is you can utilize the people who expressed interest by giving them work to do for the commission itself. Some might not be interested in that, but some might. Effen yew've got people who wanna be involved, the trick is to find something for them to do. Just a thought – I have 'em occasionally.

Iva Lootey came in t'other afternoon and said some people have more questions about the Haven projeck now that we've writ about it, than they've had before. As yew know, there were a few building razed prior to the November election, and nothing much happened before the election and nothing since. Herroner sez that she met with the Gordon Group principles, who're still interested in the project. The problem is there are no hard and fast dates that anyone can point to. In fack, in answering our queries, we learned that the permits, which the former administration said were in the pipe line, still ain't left the desk. We're no closer to anything real happening over there now than we were a year ago. That, along with a few other wrinkles, have more than a few concerned. Iva mentioned one wrinkle that Cobina had forgot about. The Kimberly Avenue Bridge was constructed about 1969 as a "temporary structure." It was built to be replaced in about 20 years' time. Well, here we are coming up on the fiftieth anniversary year of the bridge and no replacement has been mentioned by anyone. Boaters who go under the bridge see rust shards come down off the structure as they pass under it.

With that bit o' chatter, I'll close mitt luff und kizzez,

Cobina

'Read Across America' marked at WHCH

Preschoolers from West Haven Community House's Head Start program joined millions of other students across the country to celebrate the 21st annual "Read Across America Day."

The annual reading motivation and awareness event calls for every child in every community to pick up a book and read on March 2, the birthday of beloved children's author Dr. Seuss. The event, which began in 1998 by the National Education Association, is the nation's largest celebration of reading with more than 45 million participants, both young and old, fostering the love of reading.

A couple of special visitors joined in the celebration to read some books from the library of Dr. Seuss to the Head Start preschoolers. First came "Cat in the Hat," aka Kelly Ruickoldt, Head Start office manager, who was greeted with hugs from the wide-eyed preschoolers.

The Cat handed out lollip-pop-shaped coloring books to the children in each of the eight classrooms after a theatrical reading of "Fox in Socks."

Mayor Nancy Rossi stopped by to read to the children as they sat quietly and giggled occasionally at the tongue twisting, rhyming rendition of "Hop on Pop" and "I Can Read with My Eyes Shut."

For more than seven decades, the Community House has been the cornerstone social service agency in West Haven with programs to help individuals and families achieve success in their lives and realize bright futures.

The Head Start school readiness program offers preschoolers the educational foundation they need to be socially, emotionally and mentally prepared for Kindergarten.

Each of the 144 children in the Head Start program received a brand new, hard cover book donated by Read to Grow, a nonprofit organization that provides books to families and to programs and helps parents create language-rich homes in which children can develop critical early skills.

Students learn French culture through food, personal experiences

French students at West Haven High School and some friends enjoyed two "Dinner and Movie Nights" so far this year, with another planned for May. In October, they watched "My Afternoons With Marguerite," in French with English subtitles, about the friendship between an illiterate man and an elderly woman.

In December, they watched "The Hedgehog," the story of a bright, sensitive young girl who makes the tenants in her Paris apartment building the focus of her video-making hobby.

The students enjoyed good company, pizza, snacks, and got to sample delectable French desserts made by Samantha Romano, former student of Ms. Reichert, who owns Sammi's Sweets.

French teacher Ms. Reichert and her students are excited that on March 27, 2018, in response to a parent survey sent home about culture, the mother and the grandfather of two French I students, Annabel Obas and Jenna Massaro, will be guest speakers.

Annabel's mother will share her experiences about her native French-speaking culture of Haiti, and Jenna's grandfather will speak about his life when he lived in France.

migrants, the Irish people helped build strong communities like West Haven and forge America's future.

In 1890, Walsh's grandfather, William Joseph Walsh, left his home in Lisdowney, County Kilkenny, Ireland, for the promise of America, landing in Derby and settling in his wife's birthplace of Ansonia.

His grandfather was an iron molder who later served as an Ansonia police officer, while his Irish-American grandmother, the former Mary Ann Coleman, was a homemaker who raised the couple's three children.

Walsh's interest in his heritage began in his youth, initially while playing football and shooting darts for the New Haven Gaelic Football & Hurling Club.

His love of Ireland blossomed into a lifelong passion for all things Irish, including a propensity for community service in Greater New Haven's deep-rooted Irish-American community.

For the past three decades, Walsh has been a member of the parade committee and the Knights of St. Patrick in New Haven, serving as president in 1997. He has also been a tireless member of the West Haven Irish-American Club since 1991.

Rossi praised the civic-minded Walsh, whom she called "a man of great character, integrity and wisdom," for his devotion to the Irish-American community.

Rossi will present him with an Irish flag and a mayoral proclamation citing his commitment to "preserving and promoting the vibrant culture of Erin, exemplifying the very best of West Haven."

Walsh, a native of Hamden who has lived in West Haven since 1990, will also receive a jacket embroidered with his new title: Irishman of the Year.

The rich customs of Ireland touch all aspects of American society, including in West Haven where they continue to prosper because of celebrations honoring St. Patrick. The New Haven County Firefighters Emerald Society Pipes & Drums will lead the opening procession, followed by remarks from master of ceremonies David Coyle.

Joined by his wife of 27 years, the former Donna Hackett, Walsh will then pull off a shroud revealing the rectangular sign. His father-in-law, William "Bill" Hackett, will also accompany him at the ceremony, along with siblings and other in-laws. Hackett and his wife, the late Carol Little Hackett, were West Haven's Irish Couple of the Year in 1996.

Walsh was born in New Haven in 1956 to Coleman W. Walsh Sr., a Merchant Marine veteran of World War II and an Army veteran of the Korean War who was superintendent of the powerhouse at Pratt & Whitney in East Hartford, and the former Jane Berry, a homemaker. Walsh and his three brothers and sister grew up in a single-family home on Hamden's Bliss Avenue in the predominantly Irish neighborhood of Spring Glen. The Irish Catholic siblings lived by the same mantra that was instilled in them by their father, just as his father had instilled in him: "Live each day to the fullest, and take nothing for granted. Always work hard and be proud of your work, no matter what the task is, because someday that hard work will pay off."

After graduating from Hamden High School in 1974, Walsh earned a degree in building construction from Wentworth Institute of Technology in Boston. During a prolific career that has spanned 38 years working for prominent engineering firms, Walsh, a chief inspector for HAKS Engineers of New York City, has inspected the construction of many high-profile Connecticut Department of Transportation contracts involving roads, bridges and structures, including the Mianus River Bridge in Greenwich, Stamford train station and platforms, and UConn's Harry A. Gampel Pavilion in Storrs.

Walsh and his wife live on Bellevue Avenue in West Shore. They have two children, Jane 25, of Nashville, TN, and Coleman III, 22, of West Haven.

The Irish in America
Part II

«Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!»

Emma Lazarus, The New Colos-sus, 1883

The protracted starvation brought about by the Irish Potato Famine caused the slow and suffering deaths of over one million Irish, and led to the Irish Diaspora, a massive migration of Irish citizens from their homeland to more promising shores.

The Irish who arrived in America brought along with them their lilting brogues, their customs, their songs, their dances, their superstitions, and most of them brought a religion that was as yet fairly foreign to America: Roman Catholicism.

And they also brought with them a strong dislike for anything English. From the start, the Irish were regarded as inferior by those who were already established here, and found it hard to find work at the factories which hung signs in their windows saying “N.I.N.A.” (No Irish Need Apply). But there was something else the Irish had brought with them, and it served them well:
They brought their strong Irish will. They were a stubborn and tenacious lot, who had survived starvation, misery, despair and cruelty.

cans on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line. Perhaps this was their first step in becoming respected and accepted in their new country.

As the years passed, the Irish in America grew in esteem and influence, and today, this group that once was downtrodden, has set an excellent example of how an ethnic group can assimilate and succeed and rise in their new American surroundings.

And finally, there is the story of one Irish immigrant, a master stonemason named

John Patrick Shine, who came to West Haven from County Cork in Ireland in 1898, along with his wife, Mary Roddy Shine. They settled on Peck Avenue and had ten children.

John Shine distinguished himself in the community by his leadership in the building of the “new” Christ Church on Church Street, which was completed in 1907. Interestingly enough, one cannot help but note that the lettering on the church’s corner stone is cut in an Irish script!

Happy St. Patrick’s Day!

They came here under the most strenuous conditions and made this country their riving here, would find work building the nation’s roads make them useful to the construction trades; and many

When West Haven’s sewer themselves through their association with it.

It should be noted that when it comes to gallantry and valor in battle, few groups have distinguished themselves like the Irish have.

Even before the War Between the States was concluded, the Irish had earned the grudging

City pays tribute to Black Heritage

By Michael P. Walsh

The city paid tribute to the proud legacy of African-Americans and the inspiring contributions they have made to enriching the culture and history of the United States at the 22nd Black Heritage Celebration Feb. 28 at City Hall.

During the annual event in observance of Black History Month, the city's Black Heritage Committee honored West Haven High School seniors Kobe Brantley and Bobbie James for outstanding leadership and recognized Moses and Roberta Douglas as its African-American Citizens of the Year.

The couple received a citation from Mayor Nancy R. Rossi recognizing their "lifework in shaping the fabric of our African-American community and the story of our diverse city."

Reading the citation aloud, Rossi said the Douglas' "daring spirit and inspiring contributions have spoken to the hopes and dreams we all have in common."

Moses Douglas retired from Ansonia Copper & Brass Co. His wife retired from Sikorsky Aircraft Corp. in Stratford after 16 years of service and has been a paraprofessional in the West Haven school district for the past 23 years.

The Douglases, who celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary Oct. 22, have been active members of the city's Allingtown community for four decades.

The 40-minute program, held in the Harriet C. North Community Room, featured a performance of the black national anthem, "Lift Every Voice and Sing," sung by the West Haven High Bel Canto Choir under the direction of Phyllis Silver.

The morning ceremony included an awards presentation by Rossi and Program Chairman Steven R. Mullins, the master of ceremonies, whose daughter, West Haven High freshman Nora E. Mullins, sang a spectacular rendition of "God Bless America."

The event also included remarks from West Haven High Assistant Principal John DellaCamera and committee founder Beulah "Bea" Johnson.

DellaCamera said, "We are very proud to have (Brantley and James) represent us at West Haven High School."

Brantley, who aims to study medicine at the University of Hartford in the fall, and James, who aspires to study mechanical engineering at UConn, received a Black Heritage Committee certificate of achievement from Mullins, who was joined by Johnson.

Brantley, a member of the Bel Canto Choir, recently completed Developing Tomorrow's Professionals, a mentorship program designed to help black and Latino male students who show promise but need some extra guidance in navigating their final years in high school and planning for the future.

James, also a member of the choir, is president of the high school's mock trial team and Rotary Club and serves as vice-president of the Academic Integrity Committee.

In honor of the monthlong black history celebration, organizers have adorned the walls of City Hall with various displays, including banners and posters depicting important black leaders and role models worldwide.

Bulk trash, electronic waste regulations are reasonable

March is said to “come in like a lion and go out like a lamb,” while that may or may not be true given the vagaries of the weather cycle – we all remember snowstorms in late March and mid-April – it is the time when people get out of their winter mode and begin to think about spring and summer. With it comes the age-old ritual of “spring cleaning.”

The city helps with bulk trash pickups four times a year, and this current week is the one that was earmarked for the next three-month cycle. Those having “e-waste,” electronic equipment, are asked to drop off those items to the city’s maintenance garage at 1 Collis St., this Saturday.

It is good to review those rules and regulations set down by city’s Public Works Department in cooperation with the city’s trash hauler. The bulk trash pickup and the e-waste collection are two distinct services. Here are the rules as represented in the city’s press release:

“During bulk trash week, crews will not pick up electronic items, including TVs. They will only pick up such bulk items as couches, chairs, mattresses, tables, carpeting, padding, fencing and small amounts of bundled lumber, which may not exceed 6 feet in length.

“The amount of bulk trash per collection is limited to 6 cubic yards, which is equal to a pile of trash 6 feet long, 6 feet wide and 4.5 feet high.

“For electronic recyclables, which are defined as typically anything that contains a circuit board or needs a battery, residents must drop off those items from 8 a.m.-noon at the highway maintenance garage, 1 Collis St.

“Anything that has refrigerant, including air conditioners and dehumidifiers, is not accepted. Those items are considered white goods, and residents are asked to put them out for pickup on their weekly curbside collection days.

“The collection is free for residents who have such items as TVs, hand-held video games, computers, monitors, copiers, scanners, microwaves, toaster ovens and other small appliances.”

We include these rules because residents, many times, decide to clean out their buildings and leave trash out on the curb during non-collection times. Too often as well, residents get rid of televisions or similar items, and those are never collected by the city’s trash hauler, nor by DPW crew. Those must be delivered by the taxpayers to the Collis Street garage.

Spring is a time for sprucing up one’s property, getting rid of debris that has collected due to snowstorms and shoveling, and the harsh winter Mother Nature has given us. Cleaning up one’s property is a laudable task, and we’re glad many homeowners take the opportunity.

But we all must follow the same rulebook. At one time the city took bulk trash every week. That was the procedure for more than a decade. Then, due to contractual obligations, state and federal environmental rules and other considerations, the pickups were limited to four times a year. Some people never got the memo. Some just ignore it.

We all want our streets and neighborhoods to look their best. It helps morale, keeps property values up, and contributes to making the city a better place. When there are televisions rotting away on the curb, or brush that has been cleared piled up, the city and the people of the city look bad.

The problem is exacerbated by absentee landlords, many of whom are unaware or don’t care about the pickup rules now in force. The city has an enforcement procedure and can fine homeowners who determine they will not follow the procedures set down.

Springtime is coming. We all want the city to look its best. The city has set down some simple operating procedures that make life better for all of us. It is up to us to follow those simple rules in order to make West Haven look its best.

These rules are not onerous. They are a reasonable way to make sure the city does not get inundated by trash, and help maintain a quality of life.

They should be followed for the betterment of all.

Kelly needed by Trump team

By Rich Lowry
Syndicated Columnist

If John Kelly didn’t exist, President Donald Trump would have to invent him, and he wouldn’t be able to.

The chief of staff had a rocky couple of weeks with the imbroglia over ousted White House staff secretary Rob Porter, but he is as close as it gets to an indispensable man in the Trump White House.

Where else is the president going to find someone whom he likes and respects (at least on most days), who can intimidate the White House staff into a semblance of order, who has experience in wielding responsibility in even more difficult circumstances, and who shares Trump’s instincts?

The last of these is the reason why, more than any other, there has been a major downturn in Kelly’s press coverage. He went from “Trump’s Last Best Hope,” per Time magazine last August, to a bitter disappointment. A writer at FiveThirtyEight wrote a piece the other day explaining “How the Media Bungled the John Kelly Story,” referring not to any specific story about Kelly, but to the overall sense that he’d be a restraining influence on the president.

Kelly’s boosters in the media had a fantasy that he would show up at the White House and take Trump aside at some point and explain, “It is my solemn duty to advise you, Sir, to accept whatever immigration proposal that Lindsey Graham backs, and failing that, my resignation letter will be on your desk in the morning.”

This didn’t accord with Kelly’s hawkishness as secretary of the Department of Homeland Security. What most people had missed about Kelly is that he’s an Irish Catholic kid from Boston who shares Trump’s Northeastern working-class conservative sensibility that is tough-minded and impatient with political correctness.

Kelly took justifiable incoming over the Porter fiasco, which was badly mishandled. But it wasn’t the chief of staff’s responsibility to bird-dog Porter’s security clearance.

With all the negative press coverage of the Porter fiasco, stories inevitably emerged of Trump’s thinking about a replacement for Kelly. If Trump were actually to dump him, it’d be his most destructive personnel move since firing FBI Director James Comey.

Trump wouldn’t get someone whom he admires as much. The president respects military men and billionaires, and perhaps the former even a little more than the latter. Kelly, the Marine general who lost a son in Afghanistan, can speak to Trump peer to peer in a way no Washington politico can.

Trump wouldn’t find someone else who is so clearly in it for the right reasons. Kelly didn’t want the position and repeatedly refused it when it was first offered. He has no interest in jockeying for his next big Washington job or in cashing in.

Trump wouldn’t find a comparable enforcer. Kelly’s mili-

Gripevine

By Eleanore Turkington

Dear Eleanore Turkington:

They turned the West Haven Armory building into apartments but they did not handicapped-accessible it.

There 15 steps in the front and eight steps in the back and no elevator. Isn't there a city ordinance about buildings being handicapped-accessible? I can't go visit my family because I am in a wheelchair.

WB

(P.S. from W.B.'s husband) Eleanore, My wife has had MS for 40 years and can't go visit my daughter and grandkids in their home because it is not handicapped-accessible. She is bed-bound and wheelchair-bound.

Dear WB:

On Feb. 9, I wrote John Counter at the West Haven Housing Authority and asked him, "When is this building going to be made accessible to the handicapped?"

Gripe Vine did not receive a reply.

On March 1, I sent another request to Counter reminding him that I had sent an earlier request for information on your gripe.

To date, I have not heard from Counter. As soon as I do, I will print his response in Gripe Vine. I am sorry that you cannot visit your family. However, I feel confident that Counter will respond with a satisfactory answer.

Dear Eleanore Turkington:

This is not a gripe as much as it is a question. The property at 525 First Ave. there is an old house that I thought had historic meaning. This red house had a date and I thought an historic landmark tag. Now it is ready to be demolished. Can you get any info on it?

Dear PG:

Perhaps one of my readers who have researched history in West Haven may provide us with a little of this house history. I'll publish it as soon as I get some information.

Dear Eleanore Turkington:

Prior to the mayoral election in West Haven, I decided to see what information I could get from Google or Channel 3 or 8 and there was nothing on Fox 61 or 3. Were we in the wilderness here?

I looked on local access and found religious meetings all over the place.

Why didn't someone do a video and place it on the local access channel? I would do it if necessary but, no one asked if anyone could do it. I have the equipment and it sits there waiting.

Dear DR:

Because of circumstances beyond my control, I was unable to present your questions to the news media. However, your offer of taping meetings is appreciated. The next time you see an agenda with upcoming meetings and feel you would like to record them, contact me and I will put you in touch with the proper individuals that can help you.

Dear Eleanore Turkington:

Who should I call when an over-zealous salesperson knocks on my door?

I had one some time ago selling solar panels. Any suggestions?

Cautious

Dear Cautious:

Well, yes. You could call Officers Dave Tammaro and Officer Bret Schneider at the Crime Prevention Department of West Haven's Police Department at (203) 937-3570. The officers are available Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

tary bearing and no-nonsense demeanor serve him well in the cockpit of Trump world. His extensive leadership experience in even more complicated, high-pressure situations has prepared him for an environment in which chaos and the sense of crisis constantly emanate from the top.

In short, it is Kelly or bust. Trump should consider himself fortunate to have him, and avoid the fool's errand of trying to find an improvement.

Knights fall to Academics in SCC

It's league postseason time on the local high school sports scene.

Basketball makes run to SCC semifinals, hockey falls in SCC/SWC Division 1 championship game, and swimming places fifth at SCC Meet as all three teams fared well in advance of CIAC State Tournament competition.

Basketball -- Basketball, especially playoff basketball, can be a game of runs and that was evident in the SCC semifinal matchup between fourth-seeded Hillhouse and eighth-seeded Notre Dame.

Unfortunately, it was Hillhouse who had the last and game deciding run in the Academics' 55-50 win at the New Haven Athletic Center on Monday, Feb. 26.

Notre Dame (16-7) started the second half on a 9-3 spurt to take a 33-26 lead with just over five minutes left in the third quarter.

It was the largest lead of the night for the Green Knights. However, a cold spell offensively combined with some hot shooting by Hillhouse led to two separate Academic scoring stretches as the Academics took control.

Notre Dame got within 52-50 on a Zach Laput '20 (Beacon Falls, CT) and a Jaedin Kimbro three-pointer with 16 seconds left.

Brewer would seal the game making a pair of free throws to push the lead to 54-50 in their eventual 55-50 win.

Connor Raines (17 points) and captain Michael Brooks (16 points) paced Notre Dame scoring as they combined to score 33 of the team's 50 total points.

Hockey -- The hockey team split the week by virtue of their 4-1 win at Notre Dame of Fairfield on Tuesday, Feb. 27 to finish regular season with a 12-8 mark. The Green Knights got a pair of power play goals in the second period from Michael Bencivengo and rode the hot goaltending of Brendan Crowley to the win.

Devin Napoli and Clayton Coassin also scored for Notre Dame. In the SCC/SWC Division 1 championship game, the Green Knights were shutout by Fairfield Prep, 5-0, on Friday.

Swimming -- North Hansen was one of only two swimmers to win multiple events, setting a school record in the process, as he helped lead the Notre Dame swim team to a fifth-place showing at the 2018 SCC Championship

Meet held on Wednesday, Feb. 28, at SCSU.

Hansen set the school record in winning the 200 freestyle event in a time of 1:41.41.

He finished an almost five full seconds better than runner-up Ben Brewer from Cheshire.

The previous record was held by Zac Czaplicki '04, who swam this event in a time of 1:42.02 in 2002. Hansen also won the 500 freestyle, touching the wall in a time of 4:36.71, a full 14 seconds faster than Xavier's Andrew Mitchill.

Sharks ousted by New Canaan, 2-0

The West Haven/Sacred Heart girls hockey team, fresh off its SCC Championship win over Hamden, hosted Hall/Conard on Monday evening in the first round of the Connecticut High School Girls' Hockey Association state tournament.

The Westie Sharks took the lead 2:21 into the second period when Brooke McNabola scored an unassisted goal to make it 1-0.

Four minutes and twenty-three seconds later it was Taylor Nowak on the power play, assisted by Megan Froehlich giving the girls a 2-0 cushion.

Gianna Cohrs made it 3-0 just 2:10 after that, assisted by Froehlich to increase the lead to 3-0. Nowak then sealed the victory with a tally with 2:37 left in the game for the 4-0 final.

Kyleen Crowe made 16 saves in goal for the Westie Sharks, who with the victory moved on to face perennial powerhouse New Canaan in the quarterfinals.

On Saturday night, the Westie Sharks faced the Rams at Terry Connors Rink in Stamford. The teams battled to a scoreless first period with the Rams holding the territorial and shot advantage. In the second period, New Canaan would break through with a goal on a rebound at 5:52 to take a 1-0 lead. Just 1:22 later a Ram player streaked down the left side and sniped the top, left corner to increase the New Canaan lead to 2-0.

The Westie Sharks had two, golden opportunities in the second period.

The first coming as a penalty to Veronica Lynn expired, she came out of the penalty box, received a headman pass and raced in on a breakaway but was denied by the Rams' goaltender.

The second chance would come on a scramble in front of the New Canaan net when Gianna Cohrs couldn't reach the puck in the crease in the closing minutes of the period

Top-ranked

The St. Lawrence Chargers ended the regular season in first place with a 9-1 record, and went into the post-season playoffs last week as the No.1 seed. They advanced to the finals, playing Holy Trinity (regular season 9-1) on Sunday afternoon for the league championship. The Chargers, led by Head Coach Phil Lamothe and Assistant Coach Rich Hill, were down through the first three quarters but pulled ahead in the beginning of the 4th quarter and didn't look back, winning, 49-37. The boys will be a top seed in the Hartford Archdiocesan State Tournament, which begins Saturday.

Sextets look to tournament

The West Haven Squirt A travel hockey team lost its regular season finale, 7-1, to Avon A.

Ethan Kelly scored the lone Blue Devils goal when he deflected in a shot from the point by Dylan Link.

The Westies are now 32-14-3 overall. West Haven begins the Tier 3 state playoffs Thursday night at the Danbury Ice Arena.

The West Haven Peeewe A travel hockey team moved to 30-19-5 with a split of its two games this past weekend.

The Westies opened with a loss at Greater New Haven, before rebounding to top South Windsor at home.

The Westies opened the weekend at the Northford Ice Pavilion against Greater New Haven and fell 4-3. Down 2-0 just 1 minute, 49 seconds into the game, the Westies battled back to even the game at two after one period of play.

Just 14 seconds after Greater New Haven took a 2-0 lead, Michael Madera sent Mickey Dowd in on a two-on-one break with Dante Hardt. Dowd fed Hardt who scored to cut the deficit in half.

West Haven evened the game at two when Jason Alling found Jayden Spreyer, who rang a shot off the post and in for the equalizer. The Westies took a 3-2 lead as Dave Brown stole the puck, beat two defenders and scored.

Greater New Haven evened the game with 8:29 left in the second, and despite a valiant effort killing off a two-man down situation by Colin Deane, Jack Sellman, and Haygen Axelrod, West Haven fell when Greater New Haven scored with two minutes remaining in the game.

The Westies rebounded on Sunday for a 6-5 win over South Windsor.

Trailing 2-0, West Haven cut the deficit in half when Brown scored a power play goal off an assist from Deane.

West Haven trailed 3-1 before Sean Bosworth scored a power play goal on a two-man advantage. Shane Repetto followed a short time later when he scored off assists from Sellman and Bruno Martone with 11:20 remaining in the middle period.

South Windsor responded to take the lead again 56 seconds later, but Spreyer evened the game with a wrist shot from the wing off an assist from Nolan Cole 13 seconds later.

South Windsor took a 5-4 lead with 2:47 left in the second, but West Haven scored the only two goals of the third period as Brendan Smith was sharp in goal in the final period.

Madera evened the game with 6:02 remaining in the third when he picked up a rebound of a Deane shot and scored after a steal by Deane.

Down a man, the Westies took the lead for good with 3:27 to go.

Dowd picked up a loose puck off the draw, raced into the offensive zone and fired a shot home for the win.

Wizards' All-Stars end regular season

The Wizards season ended with a bang. The Yankee League All-Star Pentathlon was packed full of exciting races and best times.

Wizards who earned top 6 finishes in the Yankee League were: Arianna Rose – 6th place for the 6 & under Girls, Michael Wight – 4th place for the 6 & under boys, Lauren Blake – 4th place and Kaleigh Morton – 6th place for the 11/12 girls, Collin Charron – 4th place for the 11/12 boys, Vivian Freitas earned first place and was crowned the Yankee League Champion for the 13/14 girls, Madison Hobart – 6th place for the 13/14 girls, Anya Celmer – 2nd place and Jillian Doherty – 6th place for the 15 and over girls.

One of the most fun parts of the All Star Meet is the Coaches Relay. The kids get to cheer on their coaches as they race against the coaches from the other teams in a 200-Yard Medley Relay. This year the West Haven Wizards Relay Team of Callie Jackson, Eric Pimer, Jay Falanga and Sean McCauley took first place.

The Wizards next event will be an Olympic Swim Clinic, in which swimmers will get the opportunity to learn from former Olympian and Silver Medalist Kristy Kowal and upcoming Olympian and American Record holder Zane Grothie.

For more information on the West Haven Wizards please visit our website at www.westhavenwizards.org The Wizards' spring season is just around the corner. If you are interested in swimming, the spring season is an ideal time to get involved. Registration will be opening in March 2018 through the West Haven Parks and Recreation website. The team is an 8-week stroke clinic, it is a great opportunity for new swimmers to learn all four strokes and fundamentals of swimming. It is also a great opportunity for experienced swimmers to refine their technique. All ages and abilities are welcome.

A CHEESY PROBLEM! Cheese is made from the curds of sour milk pressed together until solid and allowed to ripen. What cheese is made backward?

CHAIN REACTION! Take the seven letters printed below our diagram and place them in the circles so that eight four-letter words can be read, top to bottom, along the connecting lines. All the words will begin with the letter in the top circle.
